

Critical Site Survey

We conduct Penetration Tests and check for areas of opportunity within your facility and current security system. We provide techniques and procedures for conducting critical site security that provides a template for a more secure facility.

Violence Prevention Program Development & Implementation

A formal demonstration of management's commitment to employee involvement, this program encompasses everything from the evaluation of risk and records of employee training to the evaluation of the program itself. We work with your organization to develop a program based on your needs. This program is a key component to creating a security-minded culture. After all, physical security is nothing without the culture to support it.

Emergency Action Plan Development (EAP)

An EAP is a written document required by particular OSHA standards [29 CFR 1910.38(a)]

We work with the prominent individuals within your organization to plan, write and drill your Emergency Action Plan; one that works with your culture, your facility layout and within your particular industry. We will also review an existing EAP to ensure compliance for all contingencies of accidental or force of nature and assist in running all initial drills.

Active Shooter Indicators & Response

OSHA's General Duty Clause of 1970 has been amended, holding employers liable to train their employees to recognize the indicators of the potential active shooter and how to respond when faced with an actual event. We help you to identify the red flags and develop the training needed not only for OSHA compliance but to help keep your employees safe. This is included in EAP Development but can be added to an existing EAP.

Active Shooter Respond & Survive

Taught with the help of Scott Tatum of OU Medical Center, this course incorporates Active Shooter Indicators & Response with basic field dressing and tourniquet application. The purpose of this course is to help prepare your employees to stop blood loss during those critical minutes before EMS is onsite.
